COSTE, NOTED AIRMAN, REPORTED SAFE

INVESTIGATION OF LOBBYISTS TO OPEN SOON

Nebraskan Insists Upon Full Accounting of Expenditures by All National Organizations, Including Wet and Dry and Church Bodies Interested in Legislation Before Congress—Norris to Name Probing Committee Monday.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5—(A. P.)—Accounting of funds and expenditures by all national organizations, including wet and dry and church associations, interested in legislation before congress was demanded today by Chairman Norris of the senate judiciary committee in the pending lobby investigation.

"You can't make fish of some and fowl of others," observed Senator Norris as he gave notice that he would insist upon thorough investigation by the committee of the financial activities of all organizations.

Senator Norris will name the committee of inquiry at the meeting of the judiciary committee on Monday and it seemed likely today that Senator Caraway, democrat, Arkansas, the author of the investigating resolution, would be the chairman.

Tariff to Come First.

The Arkansas senator has indicated a desire to direct first attention of the committee to the activities of those at Washington interested in tariff legislation, inasmuch as the tariff measure is now before the senate.

He has named the Southern Tariff league and Joseph R. Grundy, representing the American Tariff league in Washington throughout the tariff making as among those to be inquired into in connection with the tariff.

Both Senators Caraway and Norris are insistent that the Washington "social lobby" get attention in the investigation.

They believe this takes the form of social entertainment of officials. They also agree that this will be one of the hardest to ferret out.

Long Probe Assured.

The determination of Senator Norris to go into the records of all associations, means a long investigation.

This is the first inquiry into the activities of lobbyists at Washington since 1913 when President Wilson spoke out against them, and Senator Reed, democrat, Missouri, played the role of prosecutor. Then also a tariff bill was before the senate and every member was called upon to state whether he had a personal interest which would be affected by any of the rates under consideration.

It is considered likely the inquiry will get under way before the end of the next week.

GUTRU ASSERTS ALL IS REGULAR

Former Newman Grove Banker Returns to Home.

Says Been On Vacation and Everything Straight.

NEWMAN GROVE, Neb., Oct. 5—(AP)—George H. Gutru, former president of the failed Newman Grove State bank, returned from a vacation last night, surprised to learn, he said, that there had been intimations of irregularity in the conduct of the bank.

"I don't see why there should be all this flurry over a ten-day vacation," he said. "I took my boy, Clark, and we drove to Fort Collins, Colo., then to Denver. Later we went to Oklahoma City and came straight home. The first I knew of this matter was when my wife told me on my arrival."

"There has been nothing irregular," the banker went on. "We failed, just as 200 other banks through the state have failed, because of frozen paper. There is not a disputed note in the bank. We had to close because farmers couldn't pay their notes. The amount that will eventually be recovred depends upon the policy of the bank department and received, toward collecting the notes."

Says Notes Sold.

Monday night, on a warrant sworn out by a bank examiner, sheriff's officers went to the Gutru home and received notes, which, they said, had been bought by Gutru just before the failure of his bank.

Gutru said his father-in-law, Carl Vessin, bought the notes for about $3,000. The notes are now in the county court, he said, and declared Vessin is willing, if the purchase is challenged, to accept the amount of his payment for them, and restore the notes.

County Attorney Dowling at Madison declared he would attempt to get in touch with Gutru immediately. Principal items about which Gutru will be quizzed, he said, are allegedly missing ledger sheets for Mr. and Mrs. Gutru, which were not found, it was said, when the home and bank deposit boxes were searched. Gutru denied there were any missing sheets.

Record Appears Broken.

PARIS, Oct. 5—(I. N. S.)—Capt. Dieudonne Coste and Jacques Bellonte, famous French airmen, given up for lost in a sensational attempt to shatter all non-stop distance flight records, landed at Kowchinza, a tiny village near Tsitsihar, Manchuria, a dispatch from Harbin revealed today.

If the dispatch is true and the fliers safe, it means that they have broken the existing distance record by more than 400 miles.

In addition to the dispatch from Tsitsihar, the French air ministry has received an unofficial communication in which the fliers were quoted as saying they landed at 3 p. m., yesterday.

There obviously is some miscalculation in time, or else the landing in Manchuria was not made after a direct non-stop flight from Paris. The airmen took off from Le Bourget air field a week ago yesterday, and on the following Sunday were reported sighted some distance from Irkutsk, Siberia.

There is a possibility the message was sent by the fliers some days ago and was delayed in transmission. Their plane, the Question Mark, was not equipped from the point of view of fuel supply to remain in the air for a week at a stretch.

The air ministry confessed itself unable to understand the message, and took immediate steps to verify it.

About People

Suggestion of Mrs. Laura Ennis, president of the Nebraska Writers guild, that trees be planted along the entire hard-surfaced mileage of Kansas' all-weather roads, is being considered by J. C. Mohler, secretary of the Kansas state board of agriculture. Nebraska should also be included in the beautification program, Mrs. Ennis contends.

Governor and Mrs. Weaver returned Saturday morning from Omaha after attending the Ak-Sar-Ben festivities there Friday evening. They were guests at the home of John Gamble while in Omaha.

Miss Oma Thompson, superintendent of schools for Boone county, was a caller at the certification department of the state superintendent's office Friday.

HEAVIEST GAS TAX DIVIDENDS

Counties to Receive More Than For Any Previous Month.

Every county in Nebraska will receive more money from the state treasurer's distribution of gasoline tax collected in September than for any previous month since the law went into effect last April, apportioning one-fourth of the proceeds of the 4-cent tax to them. September receipts, totalling $946,341, were based on carload receipts of gasoline brought into the state during August.

Refunds on account of gasoline which was later sold outside Nebraska amounted to $6,029, and $625 was deducted for expenses of administration. This left $939,687 net for highway purposes, and the counties' share of that was $234,922.

Seventy-three counties out of 93 will each get $1,000 or more from this source, out of September gas tax income, to be used on their local roads. Douglas heads the list with $29,443, and Lancaster comes second with $17,001. Shares of other leading counties are: Gage, $5,297; Dodge, $4,974; Scotts Bluff, $4,950; Hall, $4,935; Buffalo, $4,620; Custer, $4,557; Madison, $4,470; Saunders, $4,170; Adams, $4,109.

In each instance, the county allotment is in proportion to its motor vehicle registration for 1928.

Among the counties of the South Platte territory not listed above, amounts are being distributed as follows: Cass, $3,199; Clay, $2,476; Fillmore, $2,491; Hamilton, $2,917; Jefferson, $3,077; Johnson, $1,779; Nemaha, $2,276; Nuckolls, $2,209; Otoe, $3,782; Pawnee, $1,732; Phelps, $1,837; Polk, $2,045; Richardson, $3,415; Saline, $3,220; Seward, $3,265; Thayer, $2,538; York, $3,275.

HAY SHIPPERS ASK ESTABLISHMENT OF INSPECTION PLAN

Hay shippers from Lexington and Gothenburg and other hay shipping centers in north central Nebraska were in Lincoln Saturday for a conference with H. J. McLaughlin, secretary of the state agricultural department, and a representative of the federal department relative to the establishment of an inspection service in the state.

A number of the shippers desire this service, believing that it will improve their out-of-state market. The state department does not maintain such a service at the present time, but there is a possibility of an arrangement being made with the federal government such as now exists with reference to potatoes.

The federal government, however, must be assured of the co-operation of the state department before the service is established.

Aurand Twins See Football Game as A Birthday Treat

As a birthday treat for his twin son and daughter, Robert and Isabel, who have just reached the age of 20, State Representative L. H. Aurand of Chapman brought them to Lincoln to see the first big football game of the season between Nebraska and Southern Methodist university. The Aurand family has another pair of twins who are younger. They did not get in on the natal celebration of their elders.

"We have an excellent corn crop in the territory right around Chapman," Mr. Aurand reported at the capitol. "In a strip several miles wide there we were fortunate in getting a rain of more than 2 inches on August 10. Other sections of Merrick county which the rain did not strike are not in such good shape. Our oats and barley made the heaviest yields we have ever had, and wheat was fairly good, though not quite up to a year ago."

The Merrick county salon is not looking for a special session of the legislature to be called and sees no need of one.

CLOSING OF TWO BANKS ANNOUNCED

Effort Will Be Made to Reorganize Tamora Institution But Not at Chapman.

Suspension of two more banks in Nebraska, the Farmers' State of Chapman and the Farmers' Exchange of Tamora, took place Friday and official announcement regarding them was made Saturday morning by State Bank Commissioner Woods. The Chapman institution was closed by its own officers, who asked the state authorities to take charge of it. Examiner J. Y. Castle was sent and is now in possession of its books, notes, and all other business assets.

No effort will be made to reorganize the Farmer' State bank of Chapman, as that town has another bank which is in good condition and equipped to furnish all needed banking service in the community. Appointment of a receiver will be asked at an early date, Commissioner Woods said.

At Tamora, a meeting of depositors will be held next Tuesday evening, which Mr. Woods will attend, to discuss the situation and consider steps for putting the bank back upon a solvent basis so that it may resume operations. Examiner Fred W. Babka is in charge there. This bank was a small institution with deposits of $75,000, more or less. Fannie M. Miner was president and G. E. Hemlicek cashier.

Cashier Quit At Chapman.

Vernon Rice, former cashier of the Farmers' State bank at Chapman, who was a stockholder and one of its active managing officers, resigned about two months ago and went to Grand Island, where he took a position as bookkeeper in the Comercial State bank. He is still in the employ of that institution.

George Kopecky has been acting as cashier of the bank at Chapman since Rice left. The other officers were: President, A. M. Smith; vice president, G. H. Rembolt.

It has been known in Chapman and vicinity for some time that the Farmers' State bank was having financial difficulties with a considerable amount of frozen and doubtful paper on hand. Its deposits, which two years ago were in the neighborhood of $350,000, had fallen off very materially.

A week ago the state banking bureau issued a call for reports of state banks giving the conditions of their business on September 24. This brought matters to a head and forced the closing of the institution through inability to make a showing of solvency.

G. I. Smith Wants Property Changed To Former Zoning

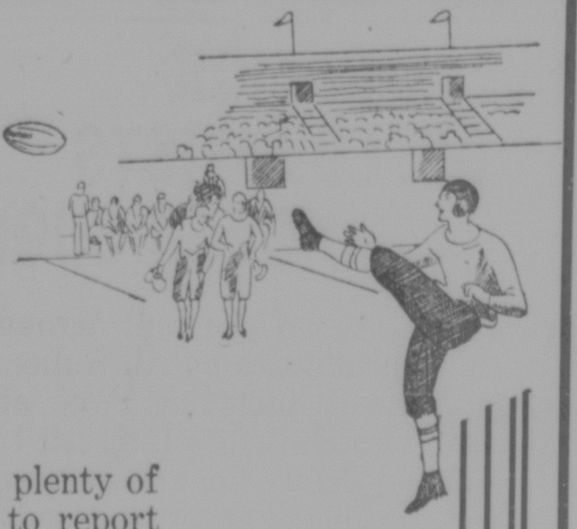

A protest against the present zoning ordinance in effect at Twenty-seventh and O street was filed with the city clerk Saturday morning by G. I. Smith, who owns the property on the southeast corner of that intersection. According to Smith's protest, filed by his attorney, T. R. P. Stocker, the other three corners of the intersection are now zoned as "commercial" district. Store buildings occupy two of them and a filling station the third. The fourth corner, owned by Smith, is now zoned as "local business" district, which means that no building may be erected closer than twenty feet from the lot line. Smith asks that this "unjust discrimination" be stopped and that his property be restored to the "commercial" classification. He claims that the change was made while he was in California during the winter.

MRS. PANTAGES TO HEAR FATE

Sentencing of Wife Today Takes Interest From Husband's Trial.

Eunice Pringle to Take Witness Stand Again On Monday.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 5—(AP)—Interest in the trial of Alexander T. Pantages, 54-year-old theater magnate, on a statutory charge brought by a 17-year-old dancer, shifted today to the fate of his wife, Mrs. Lois Pantages, who was to appear in Superior court to hear herself sentenced to from one to ten years in San Quentin penitentiary for manslaughter.

Pantages' trial was adjourned yesterday until Monday with Eunice Pringle, co-ed dancer who brought the charge against him, still on the stand. Miss Pringle, recounted her version of the alleged attack the multimillionaire made upon her August 9 in "the stairway cubby hole" in his theater building and resisted efforts of defense attorneys on cross examination to impeach her. She will take the stand for further questioning Monday.

Sentencing Postponed.

Mrs. Pantages was found guilty of responsibility for the death of Jure Roknmoto, Japanese gardener, fatally injured June 16 in a collision of their automobiles. Her sentencing has been postponed twice, once because she had not recovered from a physical collapse which came with the reading of the verdict, and again last Monday to allow preparation of arguments on a defense motion for a new trial.

The woman has been in precarious health since the collision, which occurred, the state alleged, while she was intoxicated. It was indicated she would be carried into the court room today.

To Oppose New Trial.

Repeated intimation that Mrs. Pantages would not ask for probation have been given at her home where she is under the care of doctors. The state was prepared to resist efforts to obtain a new trial.

In the trial of Pantages, Miss Pringle broke into tears once as she related the alleged occurence in Pantages' private office. Under defense questioning she denied she ever had been taken to the tiny office before August 9, or that she acceded to the wealthy theater man's advances willingly.

"He smothered my screams with his hands," the girl said. "I kicked him as vigorously as I was able and struggled until I fainted."

CUSTOMER TAKES POKE AT CLERK IN FRUIT STORE

"You can't do that," said James Arrigo, 2102 North Forty-eighth street, clerk at the Pioneer Fruit store, Thirteenth and O streets, as he saw a man enter and idly pluck the choice fruits from a stem of bananas Thursday evening.

"Oh, can't I," replied the unknown. "Then take the bananas and that too," and he struck Mr. Arrigo on the nose. Mr. Arrigo took the bananas, the blow and the count. When he regained consciousness, the man had escaped in a car, after E. B. Grier, another clerk attempted to seize him. Doctors took seven stitches in Mr. Arrigo's nose and he was getting along nicely Saturday.

Named by Shearer

HAVELOCK FAILS TO SETTLE ROW

Attorneys Hold Council Cannot Resign And Call New Vote.

Although rival factions in the strife that has divided members of the Havelock city council were present at the council's regular session Friday night, harmony prevailed, on the surface at least.

Nothing has been settled concerning the trouble that began August 2 when Mayor Hall demanded the resignation of Jack Williams, chief of police, and council members subsequently rehired him.

George Mann, one of the two special attorneys, told the council members that according to the laws of Nebraska for cities of the second class, their plan to bring back harmonious city government was illegal. The plan in question was the selection of a committee of five appointed a month ago to investigate the difficulty. It suggested at the last meeting that the mayor, city attorney and councilmen resign and a special election be held to name their successors.

Although the statutes would hold legal an appointment by the council to fill a vacancy, they do not permit the dismissal of the entire council by its own vote, he explained.

Meanwhile the difficulty was left unsettled and with the disposal of routine business the meeting was closed. Salary claims of active and dismissed members of the police force that have been presented regularly since the council first was split, were not voted upon because they did not carry the unanimous approval of the police committee, composed of Councilmen Aden and Graham. The claim of Mann & Whitten, special counsel, for $150 was approved.

Today

Britain's Real Ruler.
Old-Fashioned Daughter.
And Rosie Rosenberg.
Drugs in That Prison?

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

Ramsay MacDonald, elected head of the British empire by the labor party, is here, the first British prime minister to visit the United States, while in office.

Mr. MacDonald's reception will be that accorded to royalty, which is not exaggerating his importance.

The prime minister is the most powerful man in England. The king, addressing his lords and commons, says exactly what the prime minister tells him to say.

Miss Ishbel MacDonald, here with her father, will seem old-fashioned to many of our rising female generation.

She does not smoke or drink alcoholic liquors and does not paint or powder her face.

And most old-fashioned of all, she does look after her father and take a serious interest in public affairs.

If you see Ramsay MacDonald, labor prime minister of Great Britain, you may also see Miss Rosie Rosenberg, vivacious, able young woman, the prime minister's private secretary.

Miss Rosenberg joined the socialist party in London eleven years ago and has been MacDonald's secretary nine years.

Observe the difference between "Democratic America," and "conservative Great Britain." Here, if you join the socialist party and talk "that way," you stand a fair chance of being locked up. In Britain you may become secretary to the prime minister.

The tragic rebellion of convicts in the Colorado state prison ended Friday morning with 150 convicts walking out, hands raised above their heads, in surrender.

Four leaders of the rebellion had killed themselves. During the night the convicts, at intervals, had thrown out of an upper window the bodies of guards captured and murdered by them, the warden having on each occasion refused to let them go free.

Once a prison inmate was a poor and miserable creature, with poor and miserable friends, if any.

Some woman, sad-faced, might come to see the man in jail, bringing her child, to see him, through the bars, giving him, perhaps, a few cents worth of tobacco.

That is all changed in these bootleg days. Convicts have, outside the prison walls, ganster friends that control money unlimited. Convicts can afford to buy privileges, including drugs, even at the high prices charged in prison traffic.

That drugs played a part in the Colorado outbreak, with its reckless disregard for death, and its suicides, seems probable.

Guards will learn from the Colorado tragedy to watch their prisoners carefully, and to watch with especial care, any guard or other person engaged in the prison drug trade.

In six days Chicago must send an electric current through the bodies of three negroes and send the three murderers we don't quite know where.

Recently lights went out in the jail where the electric chair is kept. The city spent $2,500 to make sure of plenty of electricity to kill the three men on October 11.

It would be embarrassing to strap a murderer into the chair and have the current fail.

Without hesitation civilization spends $2,500 to make sure of killing three negroes. It would not spend so willingly to save them from a criminal life.

Drugs and alcohol do not lose their power, even under prohibition.

In California an unfortunate young moving picture star, recently known all over the world, is dying and the government seeks those that sold her drugs that ruined her career and her health.

In New York a talented young woman of the stage calls upon her physician, is seized with convulsions and dies before he can see her.

The medical examiner, Dr. Gonzales, examining the corpse, says, "Nothing unusual. Alcoholic psychosis."

Nothing unusual, with prohibition in the constitution and all the power of government trying to enforce it. The old saying about leading a horse to water seems to apply to human beings.

Mexico's government seizes estates of those engaged in the revolt of last March and will give them to the University of Mexico.

Thus national education will be financed at the expense of those that opposed national education.

The idea is old. Rome gave confiscated estates as bribes to soldiers, kings have rewarded their favorites with the lands and money of traitors put to death.

SEEK SOURCE OF MYSTERY PAPER

Senators Determined To Learn Where Shearer Got Document.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5—(AP)—Senator investigators intend to to learn the source of the mysterious document placed before them by William B. Shearer and purporting to be a secret British record of its espionage system in this country.

That will be one of the loose threads of the investigation into Shearer's activities as an agent of American shipbuilders at the unsuccessful 1927 Geneva naval conference which the committee will pick up on the resumption of hearings late next week.

Chairman Shortridge wants to know how and why such a paper, the authenticity of which has been challenged, has been circulating in this country. He also is interested in the testimony of Shearer that the name of William Wiseman was added to the paper before it was photographed at the navy department.

Shearer described Wiseman as "the chief British spy in this country during the war." Now in New York, he has wired the committee challenging the paper which he said he understood to be a "clumsy, absurd forgery."

Shearer also said he got the paper from a Judge Summers and that Summers informed him that a secret service agent named Wheeler in Los Angeles told him Wiseman was the author of the report. L. Senator Allen, republican, Kansas, has a report from the navy intelligence service attacking the authenticity of the paper and the committee members are wondering who was circulating it.

Theater Party Is Held Up; Bandits Get $22,000 Jewels

CHICAGO, Oct. 5 — (AP) — Five robbers with eyes for gems early today heldup a theater party and stole jewelry valued at $22,000.

Mr. and Mrs. James G. Hodgkinson, their two young daughters, and Mrs. Hodgkinson's mother, Mrs. C. A. Roberts, were the victims. Hodgkinson is an insurance broker.

The party had just driven up in Mrs. Roberts' car to the Hodgkinsons' home in a quiet section of Hyde Park when the bandits, who had followed them from downtown, stopped and called to Hodgkinson that they were policemen.

From Mrs. Hodgkinson, the robbers took an emerald ring she valued at $10,000, a diamond ring and a wrist watch set with diamonds. Hodgkinson gave up a diamond ring and $90. Mrs. Roberts lost a string of beads, but a $5,000 ring was hidden by her gloves.

EPPLEY OBTAINS VERDICT IN SUIT FORMER MANAGER

OMAHA, Oct. 5—(AP)—The Eppley Hotels Co. won its suit in Municipal court against Morrill E. Morrison, former Eppley organization secretary and manager, a jury late Friday returning a verdict for the plaintiff for $700.78, on Morrison's counter claim. Morrison asked for salary at the rate of $14,000 a year until the date he became manager of the Cornhusker hotel at Lincoln, after leaving the Eppley employ.

The jury allowed Morrison salary at $10,000 a year up to the time he made his resignation effective, May 9, and gave him his salary at the rate of $14,400 a year from April 1 to April 15, 1929. Mr. Eppley had told him on April 15, the reduction would take place effective April 1. This was deducted from the items Eppley sued for which totaled $967.59. Before the case was given to the jury, Judge John W. Battin denied a motion of the Eppley company for a directed verdict in its favor.

In his closing argument, E. S. Brumbaugh, attorney for Morrison, accused officials of the Eppley Co. of coercing Morrison to resign from the company by seeking in every way to humiliate him in order to drive him from the firm.

NEW WAY TO START CAR.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 5—(AP)—Jack O'Day took a tip from a bygone time and tried to start his car by building a fire under it. "I'm havin' a hot ride!" he shouted to passersby from the driver's seat of the blazing car, which was destroyed. Firemen rescued him and police filed a charge of intoxication.

As Rogers Sees It

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Oct. 5—Say, here is something that will be of interest to you all. I just happened to find it out in an indirect way. You know we always figured that the Lord and the elements and congress was all on the side of the rich against the farmer. So it was certainly gratifying to learn that there is a bug that is eating up the greens on the golf courses. It's called the army bug, for it comes in droves. That just shows you that the worm is turning and the leisure class is going to have their boll-weevil, chinch bug and grasshopper, too. Won't that be great, to hear the golf player hollering for relief?

Yours, WILL.

"LIMITED REVISION."

No one speaking in the United States senate during the debate on the proposed tariff legislation has described the situation more accurately and clearly than Senator Capper of Kansas.

These are his words:

"This measure is not limited revision of the tariff at all. Increases in nearly a thousand non-agricultural items is not extending tariff relief to a few isolated instances. This bill is a general revision upward. We were neither promised nor threatened with this kind of revision in the campaign; neither are we entitled to nor deserving of such treatment."

That tells the whole story.

In every speech which Herbert Hoover made before election, wherein the tariff or farm relief were topics of discussion, the president particularly stressed the fact limited revision of the tariff should be employed to aid the farmer. It could mean but one thing. If the economic position of agriculture was to be improved, the products of the farm were to receive higher duties, while the products of the factory should remain at present levels. Otherwise all of the benefits of raising duties on farm products would be nullified because the things which the farmer had to buy would reach higher levels if the tariffs on them were increased.

What has happened is an old story of gross betrayal of the interests of the rural population of America. Instead of limited revision there has been a wholesale revision. The present Fordney-McCumber tariff law contains 4,200 specific duties. The proposed legislation carries revisions, in practically all cases upward, of all but 450 items. When it is recalled the Fordney-McCumber law imposes the highest tariff duties in American history, it is difficult to imagine how much more sweeping the changes could be.

Senator Capper is most moderate. American business is not desiring higher duties generally. In many lines of manufacturing the leaders have been viewing with well founded apprehension the growing wave of resentment which is being expressed in foreign countries. There is substantial foundation for the fear tries. There is substantial foundation for the fear that the Hawley bill may seriously retard American trade in foreign lands because these countries cannot be expected to favor us with their business if we will not buy from them what we need in exchange for what we produce in surplus and desire to sell abroad.

We are not deserving of the treatment which the industrial bloc in congress has accorded us in the Hawley bill and we were entitled to an entirely different program of tariff legislation. We were led to believe that a Hoover victory would result in limited tariff revision, through the imposition of duties on agricultural products which are not now receiving adequate protection. As the bill has been drawn many items of agricultural production have been ignored, or granted duties which are inadequate to protect them as fully as it would be possible to do except for industrial domination of congress. But more than that we are confronted with sharp advances in hundreds of manufactured items which automatically will nullify any benefits which the farmer might have expected to receive from the legislation drafted in his interest.

Even such a staunch republican newspaper as The Kansas City Star, which is the most devoted supporter of Mr. Hoover throughout this section, cannot approve of what has been done in tariff legislation.

"Democrats in the senate were wrong, in our opinion," The Star declares, "in opposing the authority of the president to make tariff changes on recommendation of the tariff commission, between revision sessions. But they are right in fighting the bill as it stands and in demanding changes in harmony with the pledges of both parties."

CORNFIELD ATHLETIC HONORS.

Gladiators of the gridiron at the University of Nebraska are not the only "Cornhuskers" who will be heard from this fall. All over the state, and throughout the interior region of the United States, men are getting themselves fit and ready to compete for local and state championship honors in the expert art of "shucking" corn in the field.

The season for these contests is due to open within a short time and will continue for several weeks. Unlike most athletic sports, those taking part in them will not have the benefit of special training under professional coaches. They must rely wholly on the speed and steadiness which they have individually gained from long practices. But every man will be ready to do his "darndest" and whoever finishes ahead is going to be compelled to hustle like everything.

Every such performance out in the crisp October or November air will have its gallery of interested watchers. There probably won't be much organized rooting led by cheer leaders, but nevertheless each contestant will have his supporters "pulling" for him to win.

No bright hued uniforms will be seen at these maize-gathering tournaments, nor will gaudy pennants and streamers be waved along the sidelines by spectators. The corn-pickers will go into action clad in blue overalls, plain shirts, old coats or sweaters, and whatever head covering may come handy. When they warm up they will probably shed part of their raiment and work in their shirt sleeves.

To attain first place in a corn-husking match requires plenty of skill and stamina. The winner may well feel a sense of triumph in having made the top score over a bunch of determined rivals. His achievement may not attract as much public notice as though he had knocked fifty home runs, or broken through the opposing line for a touchdown at the crucial moment; but in his own particular line he is as much the "champion" as any of our well known baseball sluggers, gridiron stars, or golf wizards.

If Babe Ruth wants to find out how small potatoes he really is, let him come to Nebraska and enter one of our cornfield tilts. There he would make a sorry showing indeed. His brawny arms that have driven the ball so many times over the fence would soon tire and his deft fingers would be "all thumbs" when it came to ripping off the husks and throwing the ears into the wagon.

The very name of "Cornhusker," by which Nebraska's university athletes are known all over the country, is a tribute to the prowess of the state's farm boys who compete annually in the rural cornpicking tournaments. It proclaims to the world the chief industry of Nebraska and the virile characteristics of her people.

There is danger, however, that the custom of holding county and state corn-husking contests to select champions may not survive much longer. Machines are being sold which go through the field and strip the stalks of their ears much more rapidly than any pair of human hands could do. In a few years this method of getting in the crop may largely displace manual labor, just as the harvester superseded the old fashioned scythemen who garnered the wheat.

THE "OXYGEN LANCE."

Twelve men hold a world-wide monopoly in knowledge, ability, and equipment which would enable any one of them to cut through the thick walls of the strongest safe in the world in less than five minutes.

Fortunately none of them are criminally inclined. The possibilities of fluxing rod or "oxygen lance" in the hands of a master gangster has caused no little worry among bankers, but as yet no criminal has had the opportunity or the nerve to try this new tool. Experts are assuring in their predictions that none ever will.

So expert must the operators of the oxygen lance be that only twelve men have mastered it. They have gained their dangerous knowledge by exhaustive experiments with the torch. The lance consists of a long iron pipe about a quarter of an inch in diameter through which oxygen gas is forced under pressure. The business end of the pipe is equipped with a soft iron cutter-burner. The hot iron ignites in the oxygen stream and flares furiously. Held against any object, it burns straight through. Solid granite a foot thick can be pierced in ten minutes, and armour plate burns up in half that time. The best vaults now in existence cannot withstand the terrific flame.

Though vault men may fear the potentialities of this new tool, there are practical obstacles which stand in the way of its widespread use by criminals. In the first place, an immense amount of equipment is required in addition to highly technical knowledge. The heat generated is so intense that cumbersome shields must be used to protect the operator. Furthermore billows of black smoke arise during the burning process which might lead quickly to detection.

The discoveries of science have long been accompanied by fear that social and even physical chaos might some day follow. The oxygen lance is just an insignificant example in the general field. Yet human conscience and integrity continues stronger than the power of science and prevents the realization of those fears.

Everyday Questions

DR. S. PARKES CADMAN

(Copyright 1929, New York Tribune.)

Questions from Lincoln Star readers are answered daily by the Rev. Dr. S. Parkes Cadman, of the Federated Council of Churches of Christ in America. Dr. Cadman seeks to answer inquiries that appear to be representative of the trends of thought in the many letters which he receives.

QUESTION.

Lexington, Ky.

Taine, the French philosopher and writer, is reported to have said that "Virtue is egoism furnished with a spy glass."

Does this mean that those who are virtuous or who assume virtue, seek to find shortcomings in others?

ANSWER.

Do not judge Taine by this quotation. Enamored as he was of the precise and the definite, the spiritualist philosophy of the mid-Victorian age antagonized him. He returned to the eighteenth century men, especially to Condillac, and became a more influential apostle of positivism than Comte, the founder of the cult.

He loved startling paradoxes, saw almost everything in bold relief, sometimes in exaggerated outlines, and had a marked predilection for exuberance, strength and splendor. Hence, his love of Shakespeare, Titian and Rubens.

The dictum you quote is a vagrant example of his literary tendencies. Virtue, rightly considered excludes the egoism which revels in the fault of others. Modesty is its first reaction and without the charity which thinks no evil, it is null and void.

Moreover, in ethics, Taine was a materialist. His moral system grew out of nature and civilization combined. Man, according to this distinguished Frenchman, had no spark of divinity in him and righteousness could be weighed rather than estimated, as if it had avoirdupois. No wonder he assumed a state of hopeless resignation.

QUESTION.

New York City.

Do you believe that conscience is an inherent faculty of man's mind, as much in the savage as in the civilized man, or is it the development of instruction and environment?

ANSWER.

Any faculty in man which can be developed must at least have a previous potential existence in him. No one can be trained to do what he has not the slightest capacity for doing. No amount of discipline can make a moral being out of a non-moral being. Man is so constituted that with his consciousness comes the sense of his obligation. This pledges him to the fulfillment of his ideals of right and justice. These ideals may be faulty and he may also refuse to practice them. But the normal situation is as stated.

If you can discover an individual without his "conscience," such a one is not normally human and, therefore, is irresponsible. On the other hand, the faculty itself needs direction and standards. Kant, who thought upon the issue as deeply as any modern philosopher, said that while the bare idea of "oughtness" or obligation, was native to man, the proper content of the obligation could only be acquired by experience Read Dr. James Martineau's "Types of Ethical Theory," for an excellent treatment of the problem raised by your question.

QUESTION.

Lansing, Mich.

How do the Hedonistic, Epicurean and Utilitarian philosophies respectively differ?

ANSWER.

Hedonism is derived from the Greek word meaning "pleasure," and as a philosophical theory it claims that pleasure is life's chief end and the motivating force of conduct. It may be of the body, in which case it is defined as "the absence of pain," or of the soul, when it is defined as "the absence of confusion." Hedonist thinkers sometimes stress the one definition and sometimes the other.

Epicurus was a Hedonist in that he insisted upon pleasure as the the pleasures of the soul and gave main objective. But he emphasized these such significance that his Hedonism approaches the rationalistic type which is central and supreme in Stoicism.

Utilitarianism also is Hedonistic in the sense that it judges actions to be good or evil according to their "utility" in producing happiness. But utilitarian theories differ about the criterion of happiness. Hobbs, for example, held that all men seek their own personal pleasure and that they judge the utility of their actions accordingly.

Comte maintained that the utility of actions depends on their promotion of the happiness of others, and this conclusion was supported by John Stuart Mill. Jeremy Bentham, the philosophical progenitor of Mill and of ris father, James Mill, believed that "push pin was as good as poetry" for the individual who got more pleasure out of the game than he did out of reading Homer.

Carlyle satirized Bentham's Utilitarianism in his well known allusion to it. "This theory," he declared, "should make us go on all fours and lay no claim at all to the dignity of being moral . . With stupidity and sound digestion man may front much. What, in these dull unimaginative days, are the terrors of conscience to the diseases of the liver? Not on morality, but on cookery, let us build our stronghold — there brandishing our frying pan as censer, let us offer sweet incense to the Devil and live at ease on the fat things he har sprovided for his elect" (Sartor Resartus: chapter VII page 12.)

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

Thalessa Tells the Whole Story

BY THORNTON W. BURGESS.

More humble folk than you're aware
In your well being have a share.
—Old Mother Nature.

Thalessa the curious insect whose acquaintance Peter Rabbit had just made, was very obliging. She didn't mind Peter's curiosity at all. When Peter asked her to tell him the whole story of the life of one of her children, she settled self comfortably, for she was rather tired from the drilling she had been doing.

"You see, it is this way. Peter Rabbit," she began. "There are a lot of people in this world who do a great deal of harm. There are others who do a great deal of good. I flatter myself that the members of my family are in the latter class. Now, take the Horntail, for instance. What does Mrs. Horn-tail do? She drills a hole in a tree and in it lays an egg. The egg hatches. The baby begins to eat wood. It gnaws and grows, and grows and gnaws. It gets to be quite good size in doing so it makes a tunnel in the tree. When it has reached its full growth it changes into an insect like its mother—a Horntail. Then it gnaws its way out and flies away.

"Now, if there are a lot of these Horntail children in a tree, it means a lot of trouble. That means that that tree is weakened. It also means that moisture gets in and decay follows. What I am trying to make you understand, Peter Rabbit s that these borers arei really tree destroyers and that there is nothing that the tree can do about it.

"Now, this is where I come in .I hunt until I find one of these Horntail tunnels. Then I bore down into it with my little drill. When I have reached it I leave an egg in it. The egg hatches. My baby promptly goes crawling along that tunnel until he finds the maker of the tunnel. My baby attacks the borer and lives on it. Of course, it kills the borer. Then, when my baby has attained full size, it make a cocoon inside that tunnel, just as some caterpillars that you know make a cocoon. Inside that cocoon my baby changes and by and by becomes just like me. Then it gnaws its way out of that tunnel and flies away to keep on with the good work I am doing. That is the whole story. Is it clear to you now?"

"That's my business," said she, "to protect trees."

Peter nodded. "Yes," said he, "it any less wonderful than it was before I fully understood it. You really are a sort of tree protector, aren't you?"

Thalessa nodded. "That's my business," said she, "to protect trees. I don't know what would happen were it not for my family. It's a big family with a long name. They call us Ichneumon Flies."

"I like Thalessa better," said Peter.

"Some of the family are very tiny. I am the biggest of the family," said Thalessa.

"Do the tiny ones bore into trees too?" inquired Peter.

"No, indeed" explained Thalessa. "But they all do a lot of good in the world. Some of them place their eggs under the skins of caterpillars and the same thing happens. It is the end of the caterpillar. But I can't tell you any more now. I must find out if there is another Horntail borer somewhere in this tree. It is too fine a tree to have ruined by borers."

"That's right," said Peter. "That's right. If you dont mind, Ill watch you."

"I dont mind," said Thalessa.

Diet and Health

By Lulu Hunt Peters, M. D.

Author of "Diet and Health" and "Diet for Children."

OVERWEIGHT BRINGS MANY ILLS OF VITAL ORGANS, SAYS DOCTOR.

Question.

"Dear Doctor: In an article called 'Misleading Advertisers,' I note what you say in regard to a layman who is putting out magnesia tablets worth 4 cents, as a cure for diabetes, at $6 per bottle. I have been a sufferer from diabetes, and as an added attraction, gangrenous feet, for the last 10 years. I have tried almost everything in this time, and must have been benefited by the treatments I have used, for I am still alive. Some two months ago I saw in several reputable magazines the advertisement of a man in New York who is selling what he claims to be the treatment evolved by a German scientist. It is an "Eat to Get Well" proposition, and after reading your article I cannot help but wonder if it is the same one. Attached is an advertisement cut out from one of our local papers. Is this the same party referred to in your article?

"Will you give me the date of the article you refer to in the Journal of the American Medical association?

Answer.

Yes, Mr. M., the advertisement you enclosed is that of the same man I referred to in my article. The impression is given that the treatment by the medical profession is dangerous because it involves so much dieting, and if the tablets of this "noted scientist" are taken (at $6 per bottle!) you won't have to diet. But when you get the directions with the bottle, you will find you do have to diet, exactly the same as you would under the care of a physician (except, of course, that the diet is not scientifically directed). You are told that of course you have to avoid eating things that are high in carbohydrates, until after the wonderful tablets have cured the diabetes! And that you must especially avoid candy and sweets. But you can eat all the foods that do not produce sugar!

...t you see what a monumental fake this is? The tablets which are advertised have been analyzed by the laboratory of the American Medical association and found to be essentially magnesium. If all the diabetics who sent for the booklet distributed by this man would report to the fraud order branch of the United States postoffice, Washington, D. C., it would undoubtedly help them to realize that this should be suppressed.

This nostrum was exposed in the Journal of the American Medical association, May 22, 1926, issue.

Were you overweight before you came down with your diabetes, Mr. M.? Around 90 percent of the diabetics are overweight before the disease is manifested. Heart, liver, kidneys and skin diseases, stomach disorders, and many other things are brought about by overweight and the wrong diet which brings it on. It is for these reasons that I talk so incessantly about the importance of normal weight and the methods of attaining it.

If you are interested, we have a list of books on the subject which are written by authorities for the layman. See column rules for obtaining this. We also have a pamphlet on reducing (and gaining) weight, and one on Kidney and Bladder Disorders which gives instructions for making a test for sugar in the urine.

Mr. W.—If you have an ulcer of the stomach, you ought not to be treating it yourself, nor be placing any reliance upon reported views of some Vienna professor. I haven't seen any report of this professor's treatment in the papers, nor have I read it in the current medical literature. Probably the procedure of simple sugar water that was advocated is only one of the items in the treatment.

Editor's Note: Dr. Peters cannot diagnose, nor give personal advice. If she considers your questions of general interest, they will be answered in the column, in turn. Requests for articles on hand must be accompanied by a fully self addressed, stamped envelope and 2 cents in coin for each; for the pamphlets on "Reducing and Gaining," "The Kidney and Its Excretions" and the "Hygiene of Women," 10 cents in coin (for each) and fully self-addressed, stamped envelope, must be enclosed. (These charges are to cover the cost of printing and handling). Address Dr. Peters, in care of this paper.

The Luxury Husband

BY MAYSIE GREIG.

SYNOPSIS: Barbara Landon is wealthy and beautiful and also desperately in love with Ray Lowther a penniless musician in the orchestra of the ship on which she is a passenger. Three years before they were engaged, and Ray, suddenly learning of the loss of his own fortune, disappeared, believing their marriage impossible under the circumstances. When they unexpectedly meet on the boat, Barbara begs Ray to marry her. He still loves her, but refuses the proposal, and Barbara vows she will change his mind. She deliberately makes herself conspicuous by an outrageous flirtation with a fortune-hunting nobleman, Ralph Henderson in a last, mad effort to win the man she loves.

Chapter 6.

A PROPOSAL ACCEPTED.

Henderson was elated at Barbara's agreement to attend his house-party and ordered another bottle of champagne on the strength of it. In his growing exhilaration he failed to notice the mysterious manner in which Barbara was emptying her champagne glass—without drinking its contents.

Midnight found them still in the smoking room surrounded by a hilarious group of girls and men.

"Don't be silly, Barabara, we can't dance here. There's no music."

But, drunk as he was, Henderson was too typically British to relish making himself a laughing stock in public. However, she appeared obdurate, and presently with the cry of, "If you won't dance with me, then I'll dance by myself," she sprang up onto one of the neighboring tables.

Immediately all eyes weer focussed upon her and someone shouted, "Give us a dance."

Just for one moment she appeared to hesitate. Then her chin stuck out and her eyes hard with determination, she commenced a furious stage dance. Her lithe body moved gracefully, her feet hardly seemed to hit the table and when she paused for breath the whole room broke into spontaneous applause.

Ten minutes later, Len Hickson rushed into the cabin where Ray was sitting on his bunk getting ready for bed.

"Say, Ray!" he shouted exictedly, "what do you think that Landon girl is doing now? She's up in the smoke room doing a dance on one of the tables! She's sent down to offer us 100 bucks each if we'll go up and give her a tune."

Ray stared at him for a momen incredulously, then, as he sprang to his feet, his hand shot out and he grasped the banjoist's shoulder.

"What are you saying?" he demanded hoarsely. "Do you mean to tell me that Barbara—Miss Landon is up there dancing before those drunken sots? You must be mad..."

"I'm not. Pick up your sax, boy. The fellow who gave me the dope said for us to hurry."

But Ray did not need to be told to do that! Already he had pushed Len aside and had bounded out of the cabin.

In no time he was in the smoke room and, as he elbowed his way roughly through the crowd that surrounded the table on which Barbara was standing, there was a look in his eyes that spoke murder to anyone who dared interfere with him.

Seeing him coming Barbara exclaimed laughingly, although there was a note of nervous hysteria in her laughter.

"Bravo, here's the music," but the words were scarcely out of her mouth when she felt herself seized off the table and forcibly carried out of the room.

Henderson, without losing any time, followed them out into the corridor, where momentarily Ray had put Barabara to her feet.

"I say, what do you mean—" he began, but Ray broke in upon him, his face ugly as he brought his down close to that of the Britisher.

"Clear out of this unless you want me to take you outside and pitch you overboard!"

Once again he caught Barbara in his arms and did not drop her again until they were outside her stateroom door.

"Go into your cabin at once," he told her, his face white with fury, "and don't leave it again until tomorrow morning!"

She threw up her head and said thickly:

"I shall do as I like. I'm going back into the smoke room."

"Not until you're sober. And that won't be for a good many hours to come."

He opened the door and tried to force her through it—then, as she continued to struggle, he picked her up and unceremoniously carried her inside.

"I'll see that you stay here if I have to stand guard all night outside that door!" he told her with a cold, helpless rage.

"What do you care?" she demanded. "You told me the other night that I wasn't any concern of yours!"

He was looking down at her, his face working ominously.

"I know—but then I paid you the compliment of thinking you were capable of taking care of yourself. I see now that you're not. If you still want to marry me I'm willing—as soon as you like."

He glanced at her interrogatively, his hands shaking as he shoved them into his pockets. There was a moment of tense silence and in the pause she swept him a mocking, if unstable curtsey.

"Behold your future wife, my lord," then, her eyes twinkling behind her lashes, "Let's have a bottle of champagne on the strength of it?"

But that, to him, was the last straw.

"No," he almost shouted. "You've had more than enough already. I'm going now," and he made towards the door.

"But, we've got to talk things over," she protested.

"Not tonight. You're hardly in a condition to talk anything over tonight. We can do that tomorrow. And I warn you it's no use trying to get out of here, because for the next hour, at least, I'm going to stand outside your door."

At that he left, which was just as well, for Barabara's lips were twitching with suppressed laughter, and directly his back was turned, deliberately and impudently she winked at her reflection in the mirror.

"You poor darling," she whispered, as later she blew him kisses through the keyhole, "I thought I'd find a way to overcome that rotten old pride of yours!"

It was about this time that the smoke room steward was wondering who had been insane enough to pour a pint of champagne into one of the cuspidors.

And Barbara proves that she is clever besides being rich. Continue the story tomorrow.

STATE IS HELD JOINTLY LIABLE

Rehearing Denied of Case Won By Irrigation District.

The state's motion for a rehearing of the case in which it was held jointly liable wtih Scotts Bluff county for $16,665 damages to the Nine Mile Irrigation district was denied Saturday by the Supreme court.

The irrigation district asserted that it was damaged seriously when a state aid bridge built across the Platte river so changed the course of the stream that the water was diverted away from the mouth of the irrigation ditch.

The court also refused to grant a rehearing in the case of J. J. Shambaugh, Buffalo county treasurer, against the City Bank of Elm Creek. A number of large Omaha banks recently protested the court's ruling, holding the Elm Creek bank responsible for a county deposit.

The treasurer transferred part of the county's account from a Kearney bank to the Elm Creek bank, making the deposit with a check on the Kearney bank. While the check was in the process of collection passing through the Omaha correspondent banks another Kearney bank which was to collect the check failed before the transaction was completed.

The Omaha banks pointed out that the ruling of the court would tend to disrupt the whole scheme of financial correspondence with reference to public funds in banks if allowed to stand.

Nine other motions for rehearing also were denied.

First National bank of Walthill v. Eunice Stabler, Thurston county.

Charles C. Yeggy v. Fidelity Reserve Co., Lincoln county.

Harry A. Koch v. Village of Bennington, Douglas county.

Hattie C. Burns v. Guy L. Graham, Scottsbluff county.

Farmers State bank v. Renner H. Meents, Otoe county.

State v. Henry Geest, Douglas county.

Clifton Harshbarger v. Jack A. Bentley, Cheyenne county.

Lincoln Trust company v. F. D. Bald et al., Box Butte county.

Alexander Beck v. Johnson, Douglas County, rehearing denied but attorneys fee award reduced from $200 to $100.

VAN ANDEL BUYS SITE FOR A NEW FILLING STATION

Work will begin Monday on construction of a new complete "one-stop" filling station on the the northwest corner of Ninth and M streets as the result of a deal closed Saturday in which W. C. Van Andel purchased two lots for around $25,000.

The site, occupied for more than fifty years by the Smith machine shop, was purchased by Van Andel from Calvin W. Swingle. The deal was handled by Harry W. Lansing.

Part of the present buildings will be utilized with more than $10,000 in improvements planned. A garage, greasing room with two lifts, an outdoor truck lift, oil station with four gasoline pumps, and a battery and tire shop will be installed. The layout will have a 134 foot frontage on M street and 50 feet on Ninth street.

Work is expected to be completed by the middle of November. The site is a block from the location of the proposed new auditorium.

Mrs. D. E. Turnbull Dies At Greeley

Word of the death of Mrs. D. E. Turnbull, who lived in Lincoln ten years before moving to Greeley, Colo., three years ago, has been received by friends here.

Before coming to Lincoln the Turnbull family lived at Douglas, Neb. Her husband is a retired farmer and former Douglas banker.

Surviving are her husband; two sons, Dale M. Turnbull, Milwaukee, Wis.; Darl B. Turnbull, Chicago, Ill.; and two daughters, Miss Arline Turnbull, Elgin, Ill., and Miss Ruth Helen Turnbull, Greeley, Colo.

The body probably will be returned to Lincoln for burial. Funeral arrangements have not been made.

PAIR ACCUSED ROBBING MAILS

Kearney and Gibbon Men In Jail at Grand Island.

GRAND ISLAND, Neb., Oct. 5—(AP)—Melvin H. Leonard, 24, of Gibbon, and Joe L. Donaldson, 26, of Kearney, were brought here late yesterday from the latter city and lodged in jail on a federal charge of rifling the United States mails.

The men waived preliminary hearing and were bound over by U. S. Commissioner J. L. Cleary. In signed statements, Leonard, employed as an agent at the Shelton depot, admitted removing parcel post packages from mail sacks. Donaldson, a drayman, was implicated, in that he allegedly helped Leonard dispose of the goods.

The men confessed making purchases here and at Central City stores, having them forwarded C. O. D., Leonard removing the parcels and turning them over to Donaldson and then, in several instances, filing claims to make good the lost parcel contention, on which the firms usually carried insurance.

STATE SEEKS TO UPSET DECISION RELEASING KING

The state has filed an appeal in the Supreme court from the judgment of the Lancaster District court which recently granted the application of Benjamin King for a writ of habeas corpus.

King claimed that he was being held illegally by being required to serve the unexpired term of a previous sentence for burglary. He was paroled but later convicted for attempted bank robbery and sentenced to ten years. Since the latter term had been served, he asserted he should not be required to serve the remainder of the first term.

RAIL COMMISSION NEEDS A SHERLOCK, CUSPIDOR MISSING

A missing cuspidor which disappeared Friday afternoon was the object of an investigation started by the state railway commission Saturday. The brass receptacle had been placed near the drinking fountain in the hall. It was the commission's private property.

Land Commissioner Swanson, who is also superintendent of the building, equipped the building last week with a complete set of cuspidors but he denied Saturday that he had discarded the commission's private property.

HAS SEEN EVERY NEBRASKA CAPITOL

Mrs. H. G. Harris, aged 83, of Casper, Wyo., who looked through the new capitol Saturday accompanied by her two sons, G. C. Harris of Lincoln and C. G. Harris of Casper, was a resident of this city more than 50 years ago and saw the original capitol building here. She has also been in each of the structures subsequently built to house the state government of Nebraska.

"This is certainly a very fine building and a great improvement on the others," Mrs. Harris declared after her inspection of the capitol.

She came with her husband to Lincoln in 1876, and he served here for seven years as rector of Holy Trinity Episcopal church. The family removed to Dakota territory in 1884, but she has revisited Lincoln a number of times since then.

CO-ED SLIGHTLY HURT IN CRASH

Miss Luella Hashberger, 18, University co-ed, 2753 Dudley street, and Mrs. E. G. Morrissey, 925 C street, escaped with slight bruises as the car in which they were riding collided with a machine driven by C. Mecum, 1145 Garber avenue at Twelfth and M streets Saturday morning. Miss Hashberger suffered a bruised right arm, right hip, left knee and slight injury to one eye. She was attended by Dr. George E. Lewis at the home of Mrs. Morrissey. Mrs. Morrissey suffered no injuries apparently but was shaken up. Mr. Mecum escaped unhurt. Both machines were badly damaged.

Mystery Fliers Are Forced Repair Tank

CHICAGO, Oct. 5—(AP)—Although a leaky gas tank last night imperilled the flight of the Chicago—We Will for the refueling endurance record, the veteran endurance plane was still circling Sky Harbor airport early today. At 4:52 a. m., the Chicago—We Will had been aloft 118 hours.

A leak in the top part of the tank was discovered late yesterday and the two mystery pilots, whose identities are closely guarded by the flight promotor, made temporary repairs.

MARKET QUOTATIONS

GRAIN MARKETS.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Ill., Oct. 5

Broader export demand for wheat from North America went hand in hand today with higher prices for wheat future deliveries. Sharp upturns in foreign wheat markets, especially in Great Britain and Argentina, counted further as a bullish influence, and so likewise did recoveries shown by stock exchange values. North America wheat export business today was estimated at 800,000 bushels, including domestic hard winter wheat and durums.

Corn prices held within relatively narrow limits but averaging slightly higher. Trade was mainly of a local character. Weather conditions over the corn belt were generally favorable and the weekly forecast pointed to generally fair skies with temperatures above normal. Oats as well as corn were slightly firmer with scattered selling, causing a recission from the best figures.

Provisions tended upward, chiefly because of commission house buying of lard.

Wheat closed firm 1⅛@1⅜ to 1⅝c a bushel higher than yesterday's finish, December, $1.35⅝@⅞ to ⅝c, March, $1.42 @⅛c; May, $1.45⅝@⅞c.

Corn closed unchanged to ⅝c up; December 97⅛@⅝c, March, $1.01⅞, May, $1.04⅝.

Giving special emphasis to unlooked for higher prices on wheat today at Liverpool, and helping to lift the wheat market here was announcement that a large amount of export business in wheat from North America had been done overnight, and that Argentine shippers were asking higher prices. In this connection, notice was likewise taken of a jump of 2⅝c a bushel in today's closing quotations on October delivery of wheat at Buenos Aires.

Another stimulus to buyers of wheat today was word of irreparable damage done by drought to wheat crops in eastern Australia. On the other hand, India reported welcome general rains. Incidentally, a good deal of attention was given to a statement today showing that the United States federal farm board is definitely committed to substantial advances to the national grain corporation now bein organized.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET.

By International News Service.
NEW YORK, Oct. 5

Tobacco stocks sky-rocketed from 5 to 40 points on the New York stock exchange today following announcement of an increase in cigaret prices by the leading manufacturers as the first step to end the cigaret price-war that has been raging for the laset six months.

Bears in the stock market were caught heavily short of the stocks, rushing in to buy as prices soared.

American Tobacco common leaped 33 points to 195, while class B common gained nearly 40 points at 199¾.

Liggett & Myers skyrocketed 19 points to 100½, the class B rising 20 points to 100⅝. P. Lorillard scored a 10-point jump at 28⅝, Reynolds Tobacco B jumped 7 points to 60 and Schulte was up 4½ at 20¼.

The sharp rally in industrial stocks which featured the opening was carried along spectacularly at the close, with recoveries in the leading sh[illegible] from 5 to 25 points. As usual the bears discovered tha[illegible] sonable bounds in pounding the marke[illegible] downward on the strength of their gloom propaganda. Bargain-hunters and courageous bulls snapped up stocks before the bears had an opportunity to cover their short sales, and prices turned sharply higher. With the ticker trailing nearly 30 inutes near the close, a bid price of 216⅝ was reported for U. S. Steel, up 10 points fro Fridays' low price.

The bears were pushed to the wall in the final period as prices of the leaidng stocks went soaring. Most of the speculative leaders closed the day at the highest prices. United States Steel at its final price of 217⅝, was up 7⅜ points. Radio closed at 88⅛, up 6 points; General Motors up 4⅜ at 68⅝; Chrysler up 4½ at 57¾; General Electric up 10 at 356; American Tel. & Tel. up 8⅞ at 289⅝, Montgomery Ward up 8; Sears Roebuck up 8; Westinghouse up 10½; American & Foreign Power up 10½; American Smelting up 4; Vanadium Steel up 6 and Atlantic Refining up 3⅞.

Stock sales today were approximately 2,500,000 shares. Recoveries in twenty representative indsutrial stocks averaged 9.65 points and in the rails 7½ points.

Opening gains of from 2 to 6 points in the industrial and utility stocks which were under fire in yesterday's "bear rail" went a long way to dispel the gloom that has been hanging over the financial district since the early part of the week.

Finding stocks none too plentiful at the prices quoted as last night's "closings," the bears made the best terms possible and paid the higher prices asked for steel common, Westinghouse, Consolidated Gas, American Waterworks and other speculative leaders.

At the end of the first hour U. S. Steel was up 4 points from Friday's close, at 214, an advance of 8 points from the low price of yesterday's frenzied trading. Westinghouse was up 7 points at 215; Consolidated Gas up about 7 points; American & Foreign Power up 6; atchison Railroad up 6; Radio up 3; General Electric up 7½; American Tel. & Tel. up 6; Montgomery Ward up 4; Sears Roebuck up 5 and New York Central up 4½.

The bear raid of Thursday and Friday had the natural effect of depressing prices of many stocks to the level which made them attractive to outside traders and bargain-hunters. In the railroad section Atchison jumped 6 points to 271½; Baltimore & Ohio was up 4 points at 132; Union Pacific up 5.

Buying demand for American Tobacco swept prices of both issues skyward, the class B common jumping 39½ points to 199½.

Lorillard and other tobacco stocks also shared this market buoyancy which was due in large measure to the marking up of prices on Lucky Strike cigarets by the American Tobacco company from $6.00 to $6.40 a thousand. Liggett & Myers jumped 18 points to 100.

Though bruised and battered by the terrific poundings of security values this week, hundreds of the "itle bulls" were back in their accustomed places in the commission houses, picking up their favorite stocks at the lowest prices they have paid in a year or more. Most of the distress selling of weak-kneed margin accounts has been completed, according to reports in Wall street, which removes the fear of another sudden break in stock prices.

Trade and business has not suffered from the disturbance in the stock market, according to the week-end business surveys, which reported the usual seasonal expansion in major lines, with prospects of excellent profits over the remainder of the year.

With the tape trailing the market about 25 minutes in the second hour, demand flowed in for the well-known stocks and recoveries in many high-priced favorites carried from 4 to 10 points.

Sharp recoveries in all sections of the market were recorded at the opening today.

The first bid for United States Steel was 4 points above Friday's closing price and the stock sold at 214, up 4.

Consolidated Gas led the rally in the utilities, with a jump of 6½ points to 146. American & Foreign Power was up 5¾ at 145¾; American Waterworks up 5 at 169; Columbia Gas up 2⅞ at 126⅞; Westinghouse up 5¾ at 213¾.

Atchison led rails, with a jump of 6¼ points to 271¼. B. & O. was up 1⅝ at 129⅝; Erie up 1⅛ at 76⅝; New York Central up 3¼ at 220½; Union Pacific up 2⅝ at 260½.

Motor stocks sold higher. Chrysler rallied a point to 54½. Studebaker was up 1⅛ at 60⅝; Packard up ½ at 26; General Motors up ⅜ at 64⅜.

A block of 10,000 shares of International Nickel sold at 52½, up 3¼. Anaconda rallied 1¼ to 111, Atlantic Refining was up ⅛ at 53⅝; Standard Oil of New Jersey up 1⅞ at 75⅛; Standard Brands up 1½ at 37.

OMAHA, Oct. 5.

CATTLE—Almost without exception killing cattle of all classes sold lower this week. Declines were small on desirable light yearlings, best of the heavier yearlings and real choice weightier steers, but other corn feds showed losses of 25c to mostly 50c on more extremes being 75c to $1.00 on medium weights and heavy short feds. Tone was lower on grass beeves with demand for them narrow, cows sold 50c or more lower with canners sharing the decline at the finish, and heifers broke 25c to 50c. Large stock cattle lost all early advance and feerers closed slow to lower. In the almost complete absence of supplies today trade was nominally steady.

CLOSE—Cattle: Receipts, 500; compared with week ago, fed steers and yearlings uneven, mostly 25@50c lower; ex-[illegible]mes, 50@1.00 lower on short fed medium weights; she stock 25@75c lower. bulls, 50@75c lower; veals weak to 50c lower; stockers and feeders uneven; better grades strong; others weak to around 25c lower; bulks for the week: Fed steers and yearlings, $12.50@14.50; several loads light steers and yearlings $15.00@15.50; yearlings, $15.75; medium weights, 1280 pounds, $15.85; few head yearlings, $16.00; fed heifers, $12.50@13.50; grass cows, $6.50@7.50; seevral loads, $7.75@8.25; all cutters $5.25@6.25; medium bulls, $6.50@7.50; practical top veals, $14.50; stocker and feeder steers, $9.75@11.50; yearlings up to $12.50; fleshy feeders $12.60; stock calves, $13.50; stock heifers, $8.00@9.90.

HOGS—Demand from the outside was very limited and the small supply on hand moved slowly at unevenly steady to 10c to 15c lower. Price, top was $9.60 with bulk of sales at [illegible].35. Packing sows are closing around 50c to 75c lower for the week while butchers are off 50c and 65c.

CLOSE—Hogs: Receipts, 2,500, including 160 direct; heavy butchers steady; all other weights and classes 10@25c lower; top, $9.60 on strictly 210 pound butchers; 180 to 280 pound weights $9.25@9.50; 280 to 320 pound averages $8.20@9.25; packing sows mostly $7.35@7.50; smooth light sows up to $7.65; average cost Friday, $8.80; weight, 270.

SHEEP—Not enough stock was actually on sale to make a market today and the usual nominally steady quotations prevailed in all classes. Under lighter supplies in the late trade fat lamb prices reacted somewhat from the low spot of mid-week that forced levels to nearly 3 years, but quotations are still mostly 50c below a week ago, while natives show a loss of 25c. Demand for feeding lambs was healthy and the best kinds outsold fat all week. Top quotations are 25c under last week but bulk of feeders sold at steady prices through the period. Aged sheep are again unchanged for the week.

CLOSE—Sheep: Receipts, 2,300; supply consists of 6 loads taken off market; 2 loads fed clipped bought to arrive at $11.10; compared with week ago, slaughter lambs, 50@75c lower; sheep, steady; feeds, weak to 25c lower; closing bulks follow: slaughter range lambs, $12.00@12.25; natives, $11.75; fed clipped lambs, $11.00; slaughter ewes $4.00@5.25; range feeding lambs good and choice grades, $12.00@12.50; feeding ewes, $3.50@4.50; short term breeding ewes, up to $6.00; very few young ewes included.

Stocks Shoot Up Following Sharp Decline

NEW YORK, Oct. 5—(AP)—Stock prices rebounded in impressive fashion on the New York stock and curb and other leading security exchanges today from the low level reached in the drastic declines of the past two days. Scores of prominent issues mounted $5 to $10 a share and in high priced issues a few gains ran from $20 to $50.

Many traders were inclined to the belief that the decline which has been in progress for the past month had culminated in the flood of selling yesterday, and those who had taken short positions hurried to cover their commitments. Trading was again in huge volume. The stock exchange ticker ran for nearly an hour after the closing gong.

Tobacco Shares Soar.

Commercial Solvents, which broke $70 a share on Thursday, soared $50. Tobacco shares developed spectacular buoyance on announcement that three leading manufacturers had increased cigaret prices by 40 cents a thousand. American Tobacco "B" stock ran up nearly $40 a share, the "A" stock more than $30, and Liggett and Myers issues about $16.

Columbian Carbon, Simmons, the Standard Gas, General Electric, American and Foreign Power and Detroit Edison gained $10 to $20. U. S. Steel, Radio, Montgomery Ward, American Telephone, Sears Roebuck, General Motors, Anaconda, American Can, and Johns Manville were among shares rising about $5 to $9 a share.

BITTER ASSAULT ON TARIFF BILL

King Charges Senate In the Grip of American Tariff League.

Says Manufacturers Given Strangle Hold on Domestic Market.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5—(AP)—A charge that the administrative provisions of the tariff bill were written to give "domestic manufacturers what some have denominated as a strangle hold on the domestic market" was made in the senate today by Senator King, democrat, Utah.

A careful examination of the bill, King said, would convince anyone that from beginning to end it was "aimed against imports, whether made by brokers, foreigners or American citizens." Both imports and exports would diminish under the measure, he said, adding that all efforts to build up a merchant marine also would prove abortive.

The Utah senator's attack came at the opening of a three-hour session especially set aside to dispose of all remaining committee amendments to the administrative sections of the measure and clear the way for consideration of the rate schedules.

King said the senate was "in the grip" of the American Tariff league in the preparation of the Hawley-Smoot bill. This organization, of which Joseph R. Grundy is vice president, he added, "threw itself into the breach against the Borah resolution which would have limited tariff revision to agriculture, in the hope of swelling the profits of American manufacturers through increased industrial rates."

Says Reactionaries Won.

King asserted the "reactionaries" won a notable victory when they put through the amendment drafted by Senator Reed, republican, Pennsylvania, looking to future abandonment of the foreign value method of assesssing ad valorem duties and were seeking now to "rivet that victory."

Senator Shortridge, republican, California, had an extensive exchange with King over the definition of "reaction," asking if he (Shortridge) could be termed a reactionary because he stood with Washington, Jefferson and others for adequate tariff protection.

"Am I a reactionary," the Californian asked, "when I plead for protection to Florida as earhestly as I do for California?"

King said he had not used the term offensively, but merely to characterize a group in this country which stood for "stand-pat policies."

MacDonald Faces Strenuous Day of Courtesy Visits

11:30 a. m.—The prime minister, accompanied by the ambassador, pays his respects to Secretary Stimson at the state department.

Voluble Mexican Talks Self Into 99-Year Sentence

BROWNSVILLE, Tex., Oct. 5—(AP)—His volubility under the influence of a few portions of "tequila' has cost Santiago Casares a 99-year prison sentence.

Officers picked up Casares at Laferia, Tex., for illegal entry into the United States. He volunteered the information that for fifteen pesos, approximately $7.50, he had killed Robert Brown and Frank Stanner, Brownsville patrolmen, an unidentified man paying him the next day on the Mexican side of the Rio Grande.

When sentenced he made no defense and gave no notice of appeal.

ISHBEL CALLS ON MRS. GANN

But She Nearly Misses Premier's Daughter While at Market.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5—(AP)—Mrs. Dolly Curtis, sister and official hostess to Vice President Curtis, nearly missed a call today from Miss Ishbell MacDonald as a result of a morning trip to market.

At the Gann home it was said the visit of the British premier's daughter was unexpected and for a time there was uncertainty whether Mrs. Gann could be located and return home in time. Miss MacDonald, however, had not arrived before Mrs. Gann returned.

The visitors arrived at 11:10 a. m., and remained about ten minutes.

Mrs. Gann was the first to receive in her own home the greetings of Miss MacDonald. Chance, however, played a part in this as the visitors previously had left cards at the homes of Mrs. Stimson and Mrs. Taft, the wife of the chief justice.

The order of the calls was surprising in that it was not in accordance with the rank of the ladies, whose precedence is Mrs. Gann, first, Mrs. Taft and then Mrs. Stimson. It is not required by custom, however, that ladies follow the precedence of others in the order of calling.

Glenna Leads Mrs. Pressler At Half Mark

OAKLAND HILLS, COUNTRY CLUB, BIRMINGHAM, Mich., Oct. 5—(AP)—Glenna Collett of Pebble Beach, Cal., seeking her fourth national women's golf championship, was 1 up on Mrs. Leona Pressler of Los Angeles at the end of eighteen holes in their thirty-six hole championship match here today.

Miss Collette gained a two up lead on the first nine holes by making the journey in 38 strokes, 3 under par, as compared to Mrs. Pressler's forty, but was outplayed coming back.

Mrs. Pressler squared the match on the thirteenth green by scoring a birdie two. They halved the succeeding four holes with three pars and an eagle, but Glenna, who is out to write golf history by capturing her fourth national crown, wedged into a one up lead by bagging a birdie four on the eighteenth hole, a 446 yard stretch. The champion otherwise was outplayed coming home, getting a par 41 to the Los Angeles woman's 40.

Mrs. Pressler tossed away golden opportunities to gain a good lead this morning by poor putting. On three greens, she looked certain to win, only to lose her chance by taking three putts from comparatively easy distances.

Pressler, in ..6 5 5 2 5 5 3 4 5—40—80

Match Squared on 19th.

Mrs. Pressler squared the struggle on the nineteenth hole with a birdie 4. Both were on the green and thirty-five feet off the cup with their seconds. but Glenna was twelve feet short with her first putt and needed two more. Mrs. Pressler sank hers easily with two putts. Hitting pretty second iron shots, they divided the 20th with 4s. Glenna bounded one up again by getting a birdie 2 on the 150 yard twenty-first. She whacked her drive to within six feet of the cup and sank the putt. Mrs. Pressler got a 3.

Champion Goes 2 Up.

The champion hoisted her lead to 2 up on the twenty-second where Mrs. Pressler took three putts for a par 5 to her birdie 4. n overzealous gallery marshal shouted: "Quiet" just as Mrs. Pressler was set for her second four-foot putt and she muffed it by an inch.

Glenna was playing great golf. It was her third straight birdie and she was radiant and confident. They halved the long twenty-third in par 5. Miss Collett got still another birdie, a 3, on the twenty-fourth and went 3 up. he played her second shot from 120 yards to within seven feet of the pin and sank it, whereas Mrs. Pressler was twenty feet away in two and required two putts.

MACDONALD AND HOOVER SEEK A LASTING PEACE

was omitted because he is in Cincinnati at his home. The speaker is not expected to return before the prime minister leaves for Philadelphia next Thursday.

That the handsome, silver-haired prime minister has an appeal to the feminine heart was evidenced during his visit to the secretary of state. Two hundred pretty stenographers and clerks employed in the state and war departments neglected their work to see the distinguished visitor. MacDonald was a half-hour behind his schedule but the girls waited patiently in the corridor until he arrived.

ALLOTS BIG SUM FOR RIVER WORK

Good Grants $1,500,000 For Missouri Channel Construction.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5—(AP)—Secretary Good today allotted $1,500,000 for construction work on the six-foot channel on the Missouri river between Kansas City and its mouth.

Secretary Good said $800,000 would come from the unallotted balance of the appropriation act of 1929, and the balance of $700,000 would be transferred from sums previously allotted to other projects.

There is, Secretary Good said, urgent need for continuing rapid progress on the improvement of the [illegible]er to secure a usable channel to Kansas City. He pointed out that already $11,325,000 had been allotted on the project, but said work in progress would require all of this sum.

INVESTIGATIONS INTO COLORADO RIOT LAUNCHED

Eight Agencies To Take Part In Determining Cause of Mutiny.

CANON CITY, Colo., Oct. 5—(AP)—The tragic drama of the Colorado state prison riot gave way today to a commonplace routine as the rap of carpenters' hammers replaced the staccato of machine guns, an eight-fold investigation of the bloody mutiny got under way and preparations were made for funerals of twelve who lost their lives in battle and massacre.

Of the twelve dead, seven were guards who laid down their lives to uphold law and order. The other five were convicts, one fatally wounded by a guard, three slain by the ringleader of the revolt, and the leader who ended his life when his chances glimmered to nothingness. With his death the mutiny ended as suddenl yas it began.

Rebuilding Cell Houses.

While hundreds of convicts, not participants in the mutiny, bent to tasks of rebuilding cell houses and other buildings, plans were taking form for investigation of the trouble. Sanford Bates, director of federal prisons; J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the bureau of investigation of the federal department of justice; Gov. W. H. Adams of Colorado; Colorado board of corrections; coroner's jurors; state civil service commission; state military authorities and Warden Francis E. Crawford were to co-operate in a sweeping study of the situation hoping to ascertain why, by whom and where the tempest started.

Damage $300,000.

Nearly 1,000 prisoners were without shelter as a result of fires that swept the buildings. Twistex steel work was scattergd about the granite buildings. Damage of $300,000 to $400,000 was caused by fire and the subsequent attack by national guardsmen and volunteers on the stronghold of the felons.

Although a fund was appropriated by the last Colorado legislature for a new cell house and construction was to have started this month, work on it now will be delayed until the damaged structures are rebuilt.

RUSSIAN AIRMEN DOWN IN ALASKA

Fliers Narrowly Escape Disaster When Forced To Make Landing.

CRAIG, Alaska, Oct. 5—(AP)—The four Russian aviators flying from Moscow to New York were safe here today after their monoplane Land of the Soviets, had been forced down by motor trouble at Waterfall, twelve miles north of here.

Flying through a severe electrical storm and fighting a terrific wind, the airmen narrowly escaped disaster after both motors of the monoplane stopped.

Resumption of the flight to Seattle, the next stop in the 12,000 mile air journey, probably will not be possible for a week because a new motor must be installed in the monoplane. The motor and supplies will be shipped from Seattle. The left engine will be replaced and the right motor repaired.

The Russians left Sitka early Thursday for Seattle, taking off at 6:42 a. m., Pacific coast time). During the flight of approximately 200 miles the plane encountered bad weather, rain blinded the pilots and the huge plane flew only a few feet above the water.

The left motor suddenly stopped and the plane was swung around and headed for Waterfall bay, on the southeastern end of Alaska. As the haven was reached the other motor also quit.

Two Russians remained with the plane, which was moored after considerable difficulty in a heavy wind.

SELLS HARVARD BANK.

GRAND ISLAND, Neb. Oct. 5—(AP)—State Senator H. G. Wellensiek, who figured prominently in banking legislation in the last session of the legislature, has sold his interest in the Harvard State bank. For the past 17 years he has held the controlling interest.

The Weather.

The central disturbance is over the lower Mississippi Valley and pressure continues low north of Montana and North Dakota. High pressure prevails from the southern Plateau eastward across the country to the Atlantic coast. Showers occurred within the last 24 hours in portions of the central Great Plains and the lower Mississippi Valley, in Tennessee, and in the far Northwest. Temperatures are generally below normal east of the Mississippi Valley and are above normal over most of the region to the westward, being unseasonably high over most of Montana.

DEMO STRUGGLE PLEASES SHOUSE

Battle Against Tariff Will Aid Party Says Kansan.

EMPORIA, Kas., Oct. 5—(AP)—The fight being waged in congress by democratic senators against the republican tariff bill is regarded by Jouett Shouse, chairman of the democratic national executive committee, as an important part of the party's preparation for the next congressional and presidential campaigns, promising a success impossible with short-lived, intensive campaigns begun only a few months before elections.

Speaking at a dinner here attended by state democratic leaders, Mr. Shouse declared the republican party has abandoned its "pretense of tariff revision to benefit the farmer" and is bent on rushing the tariff bill through congress, "fearing to go to the country with the bill as an issue" in next year's congressional elections.

"They accuse us of making the tariff fight for a political purpose," said Mr. Shouse. "That is true only so far as that it may redound to the interest of the democrats to prevent enactment of a legislative abomination.

"The job of the democratic national committee is to prepare the party so that it may go into the coming campaign at the highest point of efficiency. The fight we have been making against the tariff bill is part of this preparation. That we are on the right track is indicated by the distress of our opponents at the prospect of the congressional elections next year."

REDUCED GRAIN RATES TO GULF

Nebraska Gains Advantage Seven Cents On New Tariff.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5—(AP)—The interstate commerce commission today granted permission to midwestern railroads to reduce freight rates on grain and grain products approximately seven cents per 100 pounds from Omaha, St. Louis, Cairo, Memphis and points in Kansas, Nebraska, and Missouri to the Gulf of Mexico.

The Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe, Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific, Illinois Central, Kansas City, Mexico & Orient, Missouri-Kansas-Texas, Missouri Pacific, St. Louis & San Francisco, Union Pacific, and the Wabash proposed the reductions.

They were protested by the Kansas City board of trade, which contended the reductions would throw the existing relationship with the Kansas City to the gulf rate out of line.

The rates from Omaha and Des Moines to the gulf will be reduced from 31½ cents to 24½ cents per 100 pounds. The other reductions were generally seven cents a hundred pounds.

The reductions will be in effect between October 10 and 25.

They were proposed by railroads after the Kansas City Southern reduced rates on grain and grain products between Kansas City and the gulf 7 cents per 100 pounds on August 15.

The commission announced it had permitted the reduced rates to go into effect.

Mustangs Invade Lincoln for Whirl at Cornhuskers

Bible Declines Pick His Starting Lineup In Advance Kick-off

BY GREGG McBRIDE.

The curtain was hoisted on the 1929 University of Nebraska football drama this afternoon when Coach Dana X. Bible's Cornhuskers met Southern Methodist university at Memorial stadium. The Husker-Mustang kickoff was scheduled for 2 p. m. and a crowd of 20,000 was predicted for the season opener.

Clash On Soggy Field.

Weather conditions Saturday morning indicated that the two teams would display their wares under a cloudy sky and on a field slowed down by the 24-hour rain of Thursday night and Friday morning. The field, however, was drying out in good shape and except for further precipitation, was not expected to slow down either offense to any great extent.

Starting lineups of the two teams were much in doubt, with the prospect that neither mentor would announce his roster of starters until just before the opening kickoff. The two teams went through their final practices in absolute secret, even newspaper scribes being barred from the final drill.

Starting Team In Doubt.

Coach Bible's choice probably will rest between the "A" and "B" teams, with the former probably getting the call. If the "A" team started, the Huskers will line up with:

Ends—Morgan (175) and Still (178).
Tackles—Richards (205) and Ray (212).
Guards—Koster (185) and Greenberg (190).
Center—Maasdam (185).
Quarterback—Peaker 162).
Halfbacks—Frahm (190) and Farley (181).
Fullback Rowley (171).

Possible changes from this roster would involve the insertion of Marvin Paul, a 174-pound sophomore back, for Frahm and use of Rhea, 210-pound sophomore, in place of Maasdam at center.

"B's" May Get the Call.

If the "B" team gets the call, Bible will have a slightly heavier forward wall on the field, with a light backfield. This squad lines up as follows:

Ends—Fisher (161) and Prucka (170).
Tackles — Peterson (190) and Broadstone (210).
Guards—Justice (185) and Jefferies (180).
Center—Rhea (210).
Quarterback—Marquis (158).
Halfbacks—McBride (170) and Farley (181).
Fullback—Young (170).

The Southern Methodist squad reached Lincoln late Friday afternoon and immediately went to Memorial stadium, where the Mustangs limbered up and got the feel of Nebraska sod.

Tricks In Mustang Bag.

The Dallas party made no secret that the Mustangs have been "covering up" in the early games, Texas sport writers with the party passing along the hint that the Methodists have plenty of tricks up their sleeves—surprises that have been specially concocted for the Huskers.

The Texas squad this year boasts a veteran line and a green backfield.

Koontz and Long, a pair of the best pass catchers in the south, are rated to get the call at the S. M. U. wing positions, with Skeeters and Hammon, husky veterans, at the tackles. Neely and Captain Sanders hold down the guard assignments with Powell at center.

Vets In Forward Wall.

This forward wall is a veteran combination from last season and combines weight and experience.

The Mustang fate, according to Dallas gossip, rests with the green backfield. This quartet failed to click in the early games when the Dallas collegians were devoting most of their attention to straight football. The word, however, has gone out that during the past week the foursome has been showing considerable improvement with the trick stuff and is particularly "keyed up" for the Husker combat.

Kattman Clever Carrier.

Morrison's choice for quarterback rests between Gilbert and Mason, a pair of sophomores. Gilbert has a trick ankle which may keep him on the sidelines, in which case Mason, a trickster of the first water, will do the signal calling.

Kattman, a back of last season, is a great broken field runner, while Hopper, a 200-pounder, is the line-cracking punch in the backfield. Davidson, playing his first year as first-stringer, is a versatile performer and the blocker of the quartet. Success of Morrison-coached elevens in the past has been marked by the teams' ability to pull the unexpected. This year's team, according to Dallas followers, still practices the same psychology and can be counted upon "to do anything at anytime."

COLLEGE VIEW HI IN GRID VICTORY

Robson's Proteges Grab Long End 14-0 Over Reserves.

The Lincoln reserves opened their 1929 football schedule by letting the College View gridders skid through them to a 14 to 0 victory. The players of both teams were considerably hampered by the muddy field which slowed up the game to a great extent, both squads resorting to plunging the greater part of the game.

The College View forwards demonstrated their superiority in a very marked manner in all departments of the game, opening big holes for their backfield and continually breaking through and spilling the reserve backs. Captain Scott and Eno proved the bulwarks of the suburban line.

Morley Delivers Goods.

Morley, fullback of the College View team, was the most consistent ground-gainer of the game, delivering yardage whenever needed. The first touchdown was made by virtue of a 10-yard pass, Baumann to Scott, an offside penalty against the Reserves and a series of line plunges by Morley which finally placed the ball over the goal line. The extra point was made by another drive by Morley through the line.

A blocked punt, which Eno recovered across the Lincoln goal, accounted for the other score. Morley carrying the ball again for the extra point. Scott broke through and blocked the punt.

Morrison and Bauer, Lincoln backs, were the big guns of the reserve team, Cassity and Woodside also playing a nice game. Morrison got away for several good gains and also played good defensive football.

Good Golf.

BY CHESTER HORTON.
(Golf's Greatest Teacher.)

NOW the grip again. We have gone through the back swing and the forward swing—and I know exactly what happens to your grip outoward the finish of your forward swing. You let go. The club rattles around loose in your fingers at the finish. All wrong mates. That grip must be closed at the finish of your swing. The fact that it is open and loose at your finish indicates that you begin to open and loosen it at about the instant your clubhead meets the ball. That will promote loose and ineffective connection with the ball. Also when your grip opens that way, as you go through, it gives your shoulders and upper body opportunity to quit on the swing and therefore your weight does not go solidly through. To grasp the difference here, make a few practice swings with the grip closed clear to the end and observe how different your body action is. Surprising.

Performing the role of wild animal tamers, the Lincoln high school football team inaugurated the 1929 pennant chase by completely subduing the Hastings Tigers by a score of 45 to 0 in a one-sided battle staged on the Hastings college grid Friday afternoon. The Bengals were saved the addition of another Lincoln counter when the half ended with the ball in Lincoln's possession on Hastings four-yard line, second down and goal to go.

With Bernie Masterson and George Sauer acting as head tamers, Lincoln raced through Hastings for a touchdown on the ninth play of the game, Sauer counting after a crack at center from the six-yard line.

Masterson was next to enter the scoring column when he smashed through Hastings' right guard for 40 yards and a touchdown. The first quarter was all Lincoln's, the Capital City youths putting up an ironclad defense, while their offense was functioning with great power.

Early in the second quarter, Masterson scored after a 26-yard pass from Sauer had dropped squarely into the waiting arms of Big Bernie.

The game progressed tranquilly for about four minutes, at which time Lincoln counted again on a 14-yard run by Sauer to the goal line. The half ended with the score 26 to 0.

Third Quarter Even.

The third quarter was about evenly contested, the Tigers coming out from the rest period very much pepped up. They battled the Brownies on even terms until late in the quarter, Lincoln having possession on the Adams county two-yard marker as the quarter ended.

The final canto was only two plays old when the Red and Black boys counted again on a center smash by Luchsinger. Luchsinger again counted on the same kind of a play about five minutes later. Lincoln's final touchdown was garnered on a 35-yard gallop around Hastings' left end by Sauer.

Masterson, Sauer and Luchsinger were outstanding in the Lincoln backfield, while Schmidt, Kilbourne and Bishop were the cream of the line performers. Shea and Hejkal featured for the Hastings backfield, and Jerry Parsons was outstanding on the Tiger line. Les Witte, newcomer to Lincoln high school football, was ejected from the game and Lincoln penalized half the distance to their own goal line for slugging early in the third quarter. The lineups:

These Tune-Haunted Golfers.

BY O. B. KEELER.

MUSIC hath charms to soothe the savage breast, and also, it would seem, to comfort the competitive golfer and keep his mind off some of his troubles.

Woody Platt, engaged in a qualifying round, invariably hums the air, and not infrequently sings the words, of "Abdul Abulbul Emir," and Jess Sweetser last year asked me to teach it to him.

"I'm qualifying with Woody at Brae Burn," said Jess, "and I want to learn the tenor part so we can have a duet."

When Bobby Jones sets out for the course for a big competition, I am always glad to hear him humming or whistling one of a quartet of favorite songs, all of which, I am sure, have had a part in winning golf championships.

The way I figure it out, the intense preoccupation of competitive golf finds a grateful relief in the monotonous repetition of a familiar air, going over and over in the mind in the manner known as "tune-haunted." Nearly everybody knows what it is to be tune-haunted.

Anyway, I know that just before Bobby went to Merion for the amateur championship of 1924 he saw an English revue in New York and heard there a song, "Limehouse Blues," wtih a peculiarly wicked and snarling kick in the refrain. He was tune-haunted at Merion; he hummed that refrain at the hotel and in the motor car; and he said it ran through his head on the course, all the time.

READY TO DROP MAJOR CURTAIN

Pennant Seasons In Big Leagues Scheduled End Sunday.

After five days in hiding for most of the big league clubs, the entire enrollment of both circuits returns to action today to begin the final week-end program which brings the 1929 campaigns to conclusions. The Cubs snatched one from the Reds, 6 to 3, in 10 innings, and the White Sox cuffed the Tigers 14 to 6, in the only two contests decided yesterday.

Three other games were scheduled yesterday. The Giant-Philly fray at Baker bowl was washed permanently from the schedule, as the teams already were down for two games this afternoon, and the Browns-Indian tilt in St. Louis was put over because of rain. It will be part of a doubleheader tomorrow. The Cardinal-Pirate argument at Forbes field was delayed until this afternoon to make a bargain counter attraction.

Giants Still Have Chance.

John McGraw retained his chance to finish second, even though his game with the Phillies went into the discard. As a matter of fact, this slender possibility was strengthened a bit by the cancellation. Before the game was called off, the Giants were confronted with the task of winning four while the Pirates were losing three. The Clan McGraw now has only three contests to win, but of course, the Pirates must lose all their three to help the Polo Grounders.

A sweep for the Giants and three reverses for the Pirates would leave the clubs in one of those "virtual ties" with the Bucs in games, but McGraw would gain an edge in percentage through having won one fewer and lost one fewer than his Pittsburgh rivals The Giants will play only 151 games, but the Pirates will go through 153.

Root Wins No. 19.

The Cub victory yesterday went to the credit of Charlie Root, who relieved Bob Osborne when the Reds tied the score in the eighth. It was Root's nineteenth triumph. Eppa Rixey went the route for the Redlegs, but became wild in the tenth just before Stephenson and Tolson reached him for singles. Rogers Hornsby got two hits in two official times at bat, lifting his average two points to 381. He still could nose out Babe Herman for second place, but neither he nor Herman could seriously threaten Frank O'Doul and his mark of .396.

Dutch Henry, the Giant refugee saved from the minors by Charles Comiskey, officiated against the Tigers for the White Hose. He eased up after he gained a good lead. Friday's major league results:

Women From West On Throne In Golf

DETROIT, Oct. 5—California's golfing women this year have succeeded in washing up quite nicely the opposition from other and unimportant sections such as Canada, the east and the middle west.

Glenna Collet, the champion, from Los Angeles, today meets Mrs Leona Pressler of San Gabriel, in the finals of the 1929 women's National tournament.

The big feminine golfing guns from California, is sewing up the tournament for themselves, having silenced in the earlier rounds such famous artillery as Marion Turpie, from the south; Virginia Van Wie and Mrs. O. S. Hill, from the middle west; Maureen Orcutt, Helen Hicks and Dorothy Campbell Hurd, from the east; the Alexa Stirling Fraser, from Canada.

The championship match today is played over 32 holes at the Oakland Hills country club. Miss Collett, seeking her fourth national title, is favored, in view of her record.

SERIES GRIEFS START TUESDAY

Meantime, Bruins and A's On Marks Awaiting First Game.

CHICAGO, Oct. 5—(AP)—There is virtually nothing to worry about at Wrigley field until next Tuesday at 1:30 p. m. when the worrying will start in earnest.

Neither Joe McCarthy, on the threshold of his first world series as manager of the Chicago Cubs, nor Connie Mack, to whom world series are old stories, has viewed with alarm the approaching test. Each has indicated confidence in his ball club and respect for his adversary.

The Cubs had the matter of finishing their National league schedule still to consider; a game today at Cincinnati and the season's finale at Wrigley field Sunday against the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Grampp On Mound Sunday.

Neither contest was causing McCarthy to hold his breath, and yet the Sabbath game had an element of human interest in that the Cubs' pitcher is to be Henry Grampp, getting his first start with the Cubs after having been on the club for three years.

Grampp's duties on the Cubs' staff consist of giving the team batting practice during the season. When McCarthy, two days ago in Cincinnati, told Chicago baseball writers they could choose the pitcher for the final game, they voted to a man for Grampp, so Grampp it will be.

Extra Seats Installed.

The playing field where the first two games of the October classic will be played is ready. Its seating capacity of about 40,000 has been augmented by construction of extra bleachers that rise above the sidewalks outside the park. The cost of constructing these seats is said to have been greater than any possible return they may make. They represent an effort on the part of William Wrigley, owner of the Cubs, to provide as many fans as possible seats for the games.

The Cubs, in addition to their Sunday's game, will have a workout Monday. The Athletics on the other hand have indicated they will not try out the field until the day of the game.

Ready With Full Strength.

Each team, barring accidents between now and game time, will have available the same strength that enabled them to win the championship of their respective league.

The guessers continued as much in the dark as ever as to who would be the starting pitchers. The consensus here was that Pat Malone would get the call for the Cubs and Earnshaw for the Athletics. Bush, Root, Blake and Carlson, however, will be in readiness, and Mack will have his full staff to select from.

DOPE FAVORS ZUPP WIN FROM KANSAS

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Oct. 5—(AP)—Champions of the Big Ten for the past two years, Bob Zuppke's Illinois team today faced the first 1929 test with the University of Kansas as the opposition.

Several stars, including Lanum, Walker, Wietz, Schultz and Steinman, were on the injured list, but the Illini, with a veteran crew, were favored to repel the invasion of the Jayhawks.

WESLEYAN WINS OPENING CLASH

Methodists Defy Mud In Carrying Ball Over Dakotans' Goal.

A touchdown in the last three minutes of play enabled Nebraska Wesleyan university to defeat the Southern State Teachers college of Springfield, S. D., by a 7-0 score on a water-logged Wesleyan gridiron Friday afternoon. The Dakotans were outplayed from the first, Wesleyan holding possession of the ball deep in Southern Normal territory the greater part of the game.

To Robert Gibb, a freshman and former Crete high school athlete, goes the honor of counting the winning score. Gibb was substituted for Chittenden, fullback, late in the game, with Wesleyan in possession of the ball on the Teachers' 25-yard line. Thompson's forward pass to Read was good for nine yards and Gibb plunged the remaining distance for a first down. Captain McConnaha snagged Thompson's second heave for an 11-yard gain, Gibb plunging the remaining four yards for a touchdown. His ensuing drive through center registered the extra point.

Edge in First Downs.

Wesleyan counted six first downs and Southern Normal one, the count standing one apiece at half-time. Neither team appeared able to gain from scrimmage and both resorted to an aerial attack. But the pigskin was slippery and there were but six completed passes during the game. One, Chittenden to Haberlan, was good for 35 yards and a touchdown, but the former Havelock star was out of bounds on his jaunt to the goal.

During almost the entire first half Wesleyan held the ball within Southern Normal's 20-yard line once advancing to the four-yard mark, but lacking the necessary punch to score. The third period was a punting duel between Wesleyan backs and Capt. Laur of the Teachers, Wesleyan gaining on almost every exchange until the Normalites were backed to their six-yard line as the period ended.

Visitors Complete a Pass.

A recovered Wesleyan fumbled punt and a complete forward pass, Moran to T. Rames, carried the Normal squad to midfield, where Wesleyan gained possession. Mike Crowell plunged for 15 yards. Read was substituted for Haberlan and nabbed Chittenden's pass on the first play to carry the pigskin to the 14-yard line. Quarterback Briggs plunged to the seven-yard line, but Wesleyan lost the ball on downs.

Backed to their three-yard line, Southern Normal punted out of danger, buu at this point Gibb was substituted and the Methodists quickly registered their single score.

Wesleyan will journey to Peru next week to clash with the Peru State Teachers.

Winning Plays On The Gridiron

(By Joe Godfrey, Jr.)

KNUTE ROCKNE'S Notre Dame teams, strong on deception, use the above play, as either end run, off-tackle smash or pass. The one here diagrammed depends on the positions of the defense and usually comes after the run from the same formation. The right end left end and back number one go down for the pass, as may be seen. The right tackle blocks the guard, the right guard checks the tackle, the left tackle takes care of the guard and back number two takes the end. Back number four fakes wide, gets pass from three and then makes forward passes to three, who has gone wide around and down the field.

Tunney's Wife On Operating Table

BERLIN, Oct. 5—(AP)—Mrs. James J. Tunney, wife of the former heavyweight champion, was operated on this morning, surgeons removing her appendix. The patient was said to be resting easy.

Mrs. Tunney underwent an operation while on the Isle of Brioni last spring to remedy an abscess which had formed on the appendix. The organ itself was not removed at the time, due to the patient's critical condition. Recently she was said to have gained greatly in weight and to be in much better health.

Tunney said the doctors had told him the latest operation in time would be necessary and for that reason always to remain near a large city, where it might best be performed.

It took place at Dr. A. M. Meyer's private clinic and was decided upon suddenly yesterday. The operation disclosed an abscess which had been diagnozed at Brioni. The entire appendix now has been removed.

Professor Meyer told the Associated Press at noon:

"The patient's condition is quite satisfactory. She stood the operation well and has every hope of good recovery. She will remain at the clinic for the usual observation period of eight to 12 days."

PURDUE TAKES ON KANSAS FARMERS

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Oct. 5 — (AP) — Purdue university faced a real test of football strength today in Bo McMillin's Kansas Aggie eleven in the opening game of the Boilermakers season. The Aggies, 31 strong, were in confident mood when they arrived yesterday, and McMillin, former Center college player, expressed belief that they would make an "excellent showing." The game was expected to show Coach Phelan of Purdue what he could expect from his forward wall, which has been a problem since practice started. The backfield was led by two veteran stars, Pest Welch and Glen Harmson.

Baseball's Wiseheads Nominate Bruins As World Series Winners

BY DAVIS J. WALSH.

NEW YORK, Oct. 5—It is noted today that most of the bright thinkers have picked the Cubs to win the world series and, while personally, after what happened to my Mr. Loughran last week, I wouldn't be caught picking splinters out of my own feet, I don't mind saying that I think the boys tell a pretty good story. If anybody is to be favored in this series, it should be the Cubs, if only for the fact that they have less to prove. There are fewer unknown quantities about this outfit.

No Problem of Temperament.

It has for example, no Grove and no Walberg and the question of whether they can beat a ball club that is largely right-handed. It has no problem of temperament such as this pair seem to present.

"If they get off to a good start," appears to be the way everybody is qualifying his approval of Grove and Walberg as series pitchers, whereas nobody is asking this question of the Cub staff. The latter lacks the sheer brilliancy of the rival pair. It also lacks their uncertainty and this may be more important. These are two of the questions the Athletics only can answer in the series itself.

Cubs On Familiar Soil.

A third has to do with the locale of the first two games. The burden of proof here rest upon the Athletics once more. Can they beat a club that has been almost unbeatable on its home field, where the first two games of the series and also the last two, if any, are to be played? Maybe so; maybe not. Anyhow, this is something for the Athletics to worry about and not the Cubs.

The foregoing is about all there is in the way of positive and negative evidence, however. It really isn't enough to justify anybody arising upon the back fence and announcing his choice to the assembled scullery help.

the available evidence is largely intangible and I am inclined to suspect that the man who picks either the Cubs or the Athletics simply is doing his guessing out loud. A sudden puff of wind, a misplaced pebble, a called strike; in fact, any seemingly minor detail is liable to decide the series, so close are the two outfits in team strength. Each has its individual advantages, its liabilities. But when the grand total is weighed, the balance of authority is negligible.

This, when the story is told, might even rest with a second-string pitcher. The Athletics have committed their cause to Earnshaw, Grove and Walberg, but after this trio has had its say, the final word may rest with a man like Jack Quinn.

Quinn May Be Factor.

Jack is as old as Santa Claus and can't expect to go in more than one agme; yet this may be the game they pay off on in the end.

The break Quinn gets is with his spitter and, since the Cubs haven't seen it yet, it may be that they will be unable to see it when they do see it, so to speak. Ehmke, with his bag of tricks, is another who might get by for the few innings necessary to make a winner out of a loser and, vice versa, Carlson, something of the same type of pitcher, might prove to the pay-off pitcher for the Cubs.

I think they expect to do something with old man Nehf, too, although the Athletics do love their left handers.

Anyhow, there is nothing that can be proved before next week.

That Law of Averages.

Some critics like the Cubs because they think the National league, having lost eight successive world series games in the last two years, is due. The old law of averages, in other words, and this probably is as good an excuse as any in naming the winner of a series that mostly features the following:

Too many contradictions; not enough corroboration.

Blues, Red Wings Resuming Combat

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 5—After a day of rest, the Kansas City Blues, winners of the American association title, and the Rochester Red Wings, pennant winners of the International league, will resume the little world series at Muehlebach field here this afternoon.

As it stands now, the club are on even terms, each having won one game. The Blues won the opening game of the series and the Red Wings came back to grab the second.

In all probability, Manager "Dutch" Zwilling of the Blues will send in Lynn Nelson in an attempt to clip the wings of the Rochester club. Manager Southworth will use either Derringer or Irvin against the Blues today.

There is some question as to whether Joe Brown, Rochester third baseman, will get back in today's affray. He was injured in the opening game, but played. However, he gave way to Gus Felix in the second game.

The attendance at the series so far has not been up to expectation.

Missouri U. Coach Looks at Huskers

Gwinn Henry, head coach of football at the University of Missouri and once the nemesis of Coach Elmer Ernest Bearg, evidently rates the Nebraska-Missouri game, scheduled for Oct. 26, as a more important matter than the Tiger-Cyclone fray of next Saturday at Ames. Coach Henry is in Lincoln today to see the Cornhuskers make their bow in the season's opening game with the Southern Methodist Mustangs from Dallas, Tex.

Assistant Coach Harry Lansing of Missouri is scouting the Iowa State-Grinnell game today in Ames.
